Executive summary

Mit Anlass des Übergangs in den Ruhestand von Prof. Dr. Wolfgang Wessels stellt diese Broschüre die Aktivitäten des Jean Monnet Lehrstuhls im Zeitraum von 1993 bis 2016 zusammen. Neben der regulären universitären Lehre und Forschung führte der Lehrstuhl zahlreiche Projekte zu Themenstellungen der europäischen Integration durch. In den vergangenen vierundzwanzig Jahren ist so ein Europa-weites dichtes Netzwerk von Kooperationen zu Forschung und Lehre entstanden, so insbesondere mit der Sciences Po in Paris, der Karlsuniversität in Prag und der Middle East Technical University (METU) in Ankara. Die enge Zusammenarbeit mit der Trans European Policy Studies Association (TEPSA) in Brüssel und dem Institut für Europäische Politik (IEP) in Berlin, bei denen der Lehrstuhlinhaber in der Funktion als Vorsitzender des Vorstands eingebunden war, hat stets die Verbindung zur Praxis gewahrt. Auch universitäts-intern sind enge Kooperationen durch kontinuierliche Zusammenarbeit mit anderen Jean Monnet Lehrstühlen und dem Energiewissenschaftlichen Institut entstanden.

Aus Perspektive eines institutionellen Ansatzes waren zentrale Forschungsschwerpunkte des Lehrstuhls die Evolution der europäischen Integration und die Funktionsweise der EU Institutionen. Die kontinuierliche Vertiefung der Kooperation der Mitgliedstaaten wurde insbesondere aus Sicht der Fusionsthese analysiert, wonach die Verschränkung von supranationalen und intergouvernementalen Elementen die Integrationsdynamik

At occasion of the upcoming retirement of Prof. Wolfgang Wessels, this brochure compiles the activities of the Jean Monnet Chair for the time period of 1993 to 2016. Next to the regular teaching and research activities, the Chair has acquired and managed numerous projects on topics of European integration. A dense, pan-European network of cooperation in research and teaching has developed in the past twenty-four years, so especially in contact to the Sciences Po in Paris, the Charles University in Prague, the Middle East Technical University in Ankara and Maastricht University. The close collaboration with the Trans European Policy Studies Association (TEPSA) in Brussels and the Institute for European Politics (IEP) in Berlin, where the chair holder has the position of chairmanship of the board, assured the link to political practice. Close cooperation also emerged within the University of Cologne in the continuous collaboration with other Jean Monnet Chairs and the Energy Economic Research Institute.

In perspective of an institutionalist approach, the Chair had its key research interests in the evolution of European integration and the functioning of EU institutions. The continuous deepening of cooperation among EU member states has been analysed in light of the 'fusion' thesis according to which supranational and intergovernmental elements explain the dynamics of EU integration. In the course of the past twenty-four years, a number of critical junctures as in EU treaty revisions were analysed. When the financial and Mit Einschlag der Finanz- und Schuldenkrise ab 2008 sind aber auch die Auswirkungen der Krise in den Fokus gerückt, gerade auch für die Rolle des Europäischen Rates im Institutionengefüge.

Für die Lehre zur europäischen Integration hat der Lehrstuhlinhaber über die Universität zu Köln hinaus beigetragen im College of Europe in Brügge und Natolin, durch die Etablierung eines Studiengangs zu EU Themen an der Türkisch-Deutschen Universität in Istanbul und die Umsetzung eines Doppel-Masterstudienganges in Kooperation mit der Universität Maastricht. Zudem haben sich das „Jahrbuch der europäischen Integration“ und das Taschenbuch „Europa A–Z“ zu Standardwerken entwickelt, die einfachen Zugang zu Grundprinzipien und aktuellen Entwicklungen der EU geben.

Die umfangreichen Aktivitäten des Lehrstuhls über Jahrzehnte stellen ein Gemeinschaftswerk der MitarbeiterInnen und KollegInnen dar. So gilt auch den Förderorganisationen der Dank, die die zahlreichen Projekte und Veranstaltungen ermöglicht haben. Im ersten Teil dieser Übersicht sind Projekte zu Forschung, Lehre und Vernetzung der Wissenschaft aufgeführt. Teil zwei führt die Publikationen des Lehrstuhlinhabers auf. Abschließend sind die betreuten Dissertationen und die MitarbeiterInnen und GastwissenschaftlerInnen des Jean Monnet Lehrstuhl aufgeführt.

debt crisis hit the EU in 2008, research focussed on its impact on the member states and on the institutional balance in the EU – especially in view of the role of the European Council.

For teaching EU integration, the chair holder has contributed at the University of Cologne, but also at the College of Europe in Bruges and Natolin, in the establishment of a study course on political science at the Turkish-German University in Istanbul and in the implementation of a double masters programme together with Maastricht University. Furthermore, the continuous edited books of the “Jahrbuch der europäischen Integration” and “Europa A – Z” have become standard works which allow an easy access to understanding basic structures and current developments of the EU.

The encompassing activities of the Chair over the past decades have been a collective endeavour of all research personnel and colleagues of the chair. Kind thanks are also directed towards the founding organizations which have enabled the numerous projects and events.

In the first section of this brochure we give an overview of the projects on research, teaching and networking among scientists. The second part lists the publications of the chair holder. Finally, the supervised dissertations, all research personnel since 1993 and visiting lecturers and professors are listed.

Research, Network and Teaching Projects

In collaborations in research, network and teaching projects, the Jean Monnet Chair of Prof. Wessels has established a dense EU-wide scientific network and covered a broad range of topics on European Union. In the following, projects are listed which were coordinated by the chair or in which it participated as project partner.

A number of research projects have investigated the role and functions of political institutions in the EU covering both sides of executive and legislative power and all levels of governance. Other network- and research-oriented projects have analysed the logic of the evolution of European integration. From the range of policy areas of the EU, external action and economic integration were core themes in third-party funded projects of the chair. The relation of EU and Turkey was prominent in the partnerships which have been established with Turkish research institutes. The chair has contributed to transnational scientific exchange and cooperation, as numerous projects establishing European research networks attest. Finally, the transfer of knowledge on the EU was the theme in projects on innovative teaching methods.

Projects about the Institutions of the European Union

The following projects have analysed political institutions at local, national and EU level in the process of EU decision-making.

SUMMIT – Studying the European Council – Mastering and Disseminating Knowledge about a Key Institution

SUMMIT is dedicated to the European Council and aims to contribute to the promotion of European Union studies by providing the latest research-based knowledge about this key institution. The European Council takes centre stage within the EU institutional architecture concerning all major decisions on enlargement, treaty reform or foreign policy. During the on-going Eurozone crisis management, it has even extended its leading position in day-to-day policy-making. The dominant characteristic of the European Council is its de-facto influence beyond the wording of treaty articles. However, this key institution is still under-researched and also the general public tends to know little about the work of this EU institution and how it is embedded in the EU institutional framework.

Time period: September 2015 – February 2017

Funding organisation: European Commission, Jean Monnet Project

HOMER - From History to Memory Culture: Narratives of the European Council Summits

The future of the European Union will increasingly be shaped by the perception of its history and an evolving European memory culture. HOMER is a six step programme that seeks to identify narratives, focusing on three history making summits of national leaders in the history of European integration. The project will assess the summits in The Hague (1969), Maastricht (1991) and Lisbon (2009) and analyse their roles in developing a 'master narrative' of European integration.

Project partners: University of Cologne, Maastricht University, German Sport University Cologne

Time period: September 2014 – August 2017

Funding organisation: European Commission, Jean Monnet Center of Excellence

PADEMIA – Erasmus Academic Network on Parliamentary Democracy in Europe

The motivation of PADEMIA is to establish a Europe-wide and sustainable network of 56 academic institutions from 31 countries to promote research and teaching in reaction to growing European demands to study parliamentary democracy in Europe. PADEMIA seeks to enhance discussion among students, junior and senior researchers, also in exchange with stakeholders, on how to deal with the new challenges parliaments and citizens across Europe are facing today. The network not only responds to the “Future of Europe” report, but also to the implications of the Lisbon Treaty and further formal agreements for parliamentary democracy in Europe.

Project partners: Coordinated by the Jean-Monnet Chair, University of Cologne and the Department of Political Science and Public Administration, Free University of Amsterdam, 56 partner institutes across Europe

Time period: October 2013 – September 2016

Funding organisation: European Commission (Erasmus)

OPAL - Observatory of Parliaments after the Lisbon Treaty

The role of national parliaments in European integration is a topical issue in current political and academic debates. The Treaty of Lisbon significantly expands the influence of national parliaments in EU policy-making. To this end, the new treaty has introduced “Provisions on Democratic Principles” stipulating that “national parliaments contribute actively to the good functioning of the Union”. The universities are analysing the role of all 40 national chambers in the EU in a three-year project (2011-2014).

Project partners: University of Cambridge, University of Cologne, Maastricht University, Science Po (Paris)

Time period: August 2011 – March 2014

Funding organisation: Deutsche Forschungsgemeinschaft, in cooperation with ESRC, ANR, NWO

LISBOAN - Erasmus Academic Network on researching and teaching the Treaty of Lisbon

LISBOAN (Linking Interdisciplinary Integration Studies by Broadening the European Academic Network) is a network which aims to strengthen cooperation between institutions of higher education and research in Europe with a view to teaching and researching the Treaty of Lisbon, the European Union's legal foundation since December 2009. The project was from 2010-2013.

Project partners: Jean Monnet Chair Cologne (coordinator) and 67 partner institutions from all EU member states, Croatia, Iceland, Liechtenstein, Norway and Turkey.

Time period: October 2010 – September 2013

euconet – Die Stadt Köln als kommunaler Akteur im EU-Mehrebenensystem nach dem Vertrag von Lissabon

Der Vertrag von Lissabon unternimmt eine grundlegende Neu-Strukturierung der Kompetenzverteilung und Prozeduren der Politikgestaltung in Europa, die das Handeln von Kommunen nachhaltig beeinflussen wird. Die vertraglich zugewiesene und tatsächlich ausgeübte Rolle von Großstädten im EU-Mehrebenensystem gewinnt eine neue und voraussichtlich verstärkte Bedeutung für die Zukunft kommunaler Politik. Das Projekt will untersuchen, welche dynamischen Veränderungen bei formalisierten Zugängen und informellen Netzwerken aufgrund der neuen vertragsrechtlichen Architektur zu erwarten sind. Das zweijährige Projekt hat im April 2011 begonnen.

Constructions of 'Nature' and 'Space' and their life cycles

With this project geographers and political scientists of the University of Cologne explored the process of formulation and implementation of European environment policy. The project follows two objectives: At first, the existence and relevance of the discursive categories 'Nature' and 'Space' in the political decision-making process shall be reconstructed. Apart from this conceptual interest, the project aims on an applied level to complement EU-oriented implementation studies by proposing constructions of 'Nature' and 'Space' as factors that help to better understand policy implementation within the multi-level system of governance in the EU.

IGC-NET – Anatomy, Analysis and Assessment of the EU Constitutionalisation; studying constitutional reforms from the European Convention to the Constitutional Treaty

Analysis and assessment of national and European debates about the constitutionalisation of the EU are a major topic for research of the Jean Monnet Centres of Excellence in the framework of the IGC-Net project. The network of centres between universities will pursue linked objectives and joint actions for reinforcing the European Research Area on the key issues for research and public deliberations with the civil society to exchange contributions on the anatomy, analysis and assessment of EU integration process from the European Convention towards the IGC and the process of ratification of a Constitutional treaty.

Projects about Deepening and Widening European Integration

The "deepening" of EU integration in the sense of a further integration of competences at EU level and "widening" as the enlargement of the Union have been investigated in the following projects.

EU-CONSENT - Wider Europe, deeper integration?

CONSENT (Constructing Europe Network) was a Network of Excellence for joint research and teaching on the construction of a new Europe. The network addressed questions of the mutual reinforcing effects of deepening and widening of the European Union.

The European Polity Post Lisbon – EUPOLIS

Funded under the European Union's Jean Monnet Action for a period of 28 months EUPOLIS, "The European Polity Post Lisbon", aims to stimulate academic debate on the 'quasi'-constitutional evolution of the European polity from an interdisciplinary and transnational perspective. EUPOLIS will deepen and widen the existing 'acquis académique' on theory with an analysis from the perspective of the fusion thesis.

'Leitbilder' for the European Union after Enlargement: Fragmentation, Continuity or Reinvention?

The central aim of the project is answering the question whether and if so how the spectrum of euro-political 'Leitbilder' has been changed by the enlargement of the European Union in May 2004. It is analysed whether there are tendencies of fragmentation, continuity or reformulation. A second aim is to create a network of researchers and research activities in old and new member states.

EUCON – Vom Europäischen Konvent zum öffentlichen Diskurs – Die gemeinsame Europäische Zukunft diskutieren

With the start of the European Convention's work the EU has entered a new and decisive phase in the debate about the most important challenges it has to face in the future. At the heart of these questions resides the perception that one major shortcoming of the integration process is the increasing distance between the EU institutions and its citizens and the resulting legitimacy gap. Aim of the EUCON project is to promote and develop, on the basis of our trans-national network, a pan-European debate and understanding on the key issues of the future of Europe by a series of Conferences all over Europe.

A constitution for the European Union

A constitution for the European Union is widely debated - its central terms and concepts being sometimes rather ambiguous and often highly controversial. This project analyses the public discourse on a constitution for the EU as well as the legal implications for the member states. In order to assess the chances for a European constitution a comparative approach has been chosen covering France, United Kingdom, Germany and Austria. The project is based on a literature and document analysis regarding the ongoing debate on a European constitution.

Which kind of Constitution for Europe?

The topic of the project relates to the debate about a Constitution for the European Union. The project aims at analysing political and academic contributions to this debate. The project covers a wide range of questions on institutions, treaty making and the evolution of integration, which are relevant for understanding the potential impact of a European Constitution.

Das europapolitische Wirken von Friedrich Carl von Oppenheim

Friedrich Carl von Oppenheim was one of the most important persons in the history of early European integration in Germany. Particularly as a sponsor of the European Union he linked politicians as well as representatives of society and economy in order to promote the interests of the European integration. As a result of the documentation and of the questioning of witnesses (oral history), the responsible project staff expects for the publication the appreciation of the personality of Oppenheim from three methodical perspectives: from a historical, an economic and a political perspective.

GOVIUM – Governance in the European Union 'after' Maastricht

The project focused on the question if and how the implementation of the Treaty on European Union (TEU) has changed the preparation, making, implementation and control of political, i.e. binding decisions by the use of quasi-state steering mechanisms in the EC/EU and its member states. Relevant hypotheses concerning the governance 'after' Maastricht were examined in a systematic research plan with the help of quantitative and qualitative methods.

The ESDP in the transatlantic context - between alienation and new partnership

The central aim of the project consists in analysing the implications of the development of ESDP for transatlantic relations. The TABD created in 1995 brings together the Chief Executive Officers of the leading European and US-American enterprises in order to elaborate proposals for the removal of trade barriers between the European Union and the United States. To approach the issue, three models of interaction between political and economic actors on different levels of governance were offered and tested throughout the project.

The EU as a civil-military crisis manager

The creation of the European Security and Defence Policy (ESDP) in 1999 paved the way for the European Union (EU) to act as an international crisis manager. Since, the Union not only aims at adding a separate military capacity to its hitherto civilian approach, but the very linkage of civilian and military means is declared to characterise a distinctive EU crisis management concept. The study carried out in the framework of the EFSPS programme analysed the specifics of the civil-military co-ordination within the EU in Brussels and on the ground. It focused on the interplay between member state principals and their institutional agents from 1999 to 2008.

GOVECOR – EU Governance by self co-ordination: Towards a collective “gouvernement économique”?

The multi-national and interdisciplinary research project launched in September 2001 and concluded in Spring 2004 has explored the prospects for the emergence of new modes of socio-economic governance in the European Union. In particular, Govector has focused on the combined impact of the legal provisions for the coordination of employment policy as set out by the Treaty of Amsterdam and the Stability and Growth Pact.

Employment Policies in Germany and the United Kingdom – The impact of Europeanization

The aim of the project is to compare British and German employment policies in the light of the evolving European Union level framework for promoting employment that was introduced by the 1997 Treaty of Amsterdam. Since then, employment has had a much higher priority in the fundamental aims of the European Union (EU). In particular, a new European employment strategy (EES) was put in place in 1998 to increase the rate of job creation and to add to the EMU policy armoury. At the heart of the EES is an annual procedure (the so-called 'Luxembourg process') under which Member States develop National Action Plans (NAPs) based on common guidelines agreed at the European level.

Governance in the Economic and Monetary Union after 1999

The aim of this project, carried out within the priority programme "Governance in the European Union" co-ordinated by Prof. Dr. Beate Kohler-Koch, was to analyse how new legal provisions in EMU related policies have led to significantly different 'modes of governance'.

This research project analysed the validity of concepts and functions of the European Parliament and of the national parliaments in the light of the Amsterdam Treaty. Given the newly introduced powers for the European Parliament and the Treaty's Protocol on the role of national parliaments in the European Union, special attention was given to the development of both kinds of legislatures since 1997.

Broad Economic Policy Guidelines

In addition to the project on the Broad Economic Policy Guidelines 200, a follow-up study was carried out with the aim to assist the Economic and Monetary Affairs Committee of the European Parliament in providing its own contribution to the analysis of the current economic situation of the EU in the year 2002, and the outlook for the future. The interdisciplinary (economic as well as political) analysis was carried out by an interdisciplinary project expert group from several member states.

Projects relating to Turkey and the EU

The relation of Turkey and the EU has been of interest for the chair in practical and academic terms. Since March 2002 the chair was involved in the establishment of a Turkish German University in Istanbul. The network project SINAN encouraged the exchange among Turkish and EU researchers. Finally, Turkey's role for the EU was a topic of research as in the field of energy policy.

FEUTURE

The project "FEUTURE: The Future of EU-Turkey Relations: Mapping Dynamics and Testing Scenarios" aims at shedding light on the multifaceted relations between Turkey and Europe, to explore Turkey's role in the region from a historical perspective and to develop scenarios for the future. This inter- and transdisciplinary analysis will create a basis for policy recommendations and lay out different options for future relations between the EU and Turkey – including membership and other potential partnerships.

Project partners: Jean Monnet Chair, University of Cologne (project coordinator); Instituto Affari Internazionali (IAI) in Rome, Koc University and Bilgi University in Istanbul, Middle East Technical University (Ankara) and other project partners

Time period: 2016 – 2019

Funding organisation: European Commission (Horizon 2020)

Turkey's Potential as Future Energy Hub

This project examines Turkey's role in global energy issues, such as energy supply security. Political sciences analysis will be combined with economic modeling techniques in order to better understand how decisions are made and what their global impact will be. In doing so, different scenarios are developed to assess whether Turkey can become an energy hub. An emphasis is put on geopolitical conditions as well as on different actors that are involved in shaping Turkey's energy policy. While a political science perspective is adopted to compare Turkish and European and German perceptions, the economic analysis focuses on Turkey's role in global oil and gas trade, especially with regard to new infrastructure projects. The economic modeling part of the research project will quantify the changes that will occur in the global oil and gas market as response to infrastructure changes in the Middle East.

Die Türkisch-Deutsche Universität

Seit Mitte 2006 liefen die Verhandlungen zur Gründung einer „Türkisch-Deutschen Universität“ (TDU) in Istanbul. Im Mai 2008 wurde in Berlin das Regierungsabkommen zur Gründung der TDU von den Außenministern beider Länder und der deutschen Bildungsministerin unterzeichnet, das von beiden Ländern ratifiziert wurde. Die offizielle Gründung der TDU, als staatliche Universität in Istanbul, fand im April 2010 statt. Die deutschen Kooperationsleistungen für den Aufbau und den Betrieb der TDU werden vom Bundesministerium für Bildung und Forschung (BMBF) finanziert. Der Deutsche Akademische Austauschdienst (DAAD) entwickelt und koordiniert das Universitätsprojekt im Auftrag und in Abstimmung mit dem BMBF und dem Auswärtigen Amt (AA).

Für die akademische Gestaltung und Mitwirkung in Lehre und Forschung wurde ein Hochschulkonsortium im Juli 2009 gegründet. Die Universität zu Köln übernahm in Kooperation mit der Westfälischen Wilhelms-Universität Münster die Federführung für den Aufbau der Wirtschafts- und Verwaltungswissenschaftlichen Fakultät (inkl. Politikwissenschaft) der TDU. Publications

The publications of Prof. Dr. Wolfgang Wessels cover a broad range of questions of European integration. In numerous contributions he investigated the EU institutional architecture and the evolution of European integration in terms of "deepening" shared decision-making and "widening" by including new member states. Within the study of EU institutions the role and function of the European Council has always been a core research interest. Two policy areas have been analysed with special attention: the EU economic governance and Common Foreign and Security Policy (CFSP) of the EU.

Three continuous publications were established as standard works for teaching and studying the EU. In co-editorship with Prof. Dr. Werner Weidenfeld the "Jahrbuch der Europäischen Integration" has been published annually since 1981 and "Europa von A – Z. Taschenbuch der Europäischen Integration" bi-annually since 1991. "Das politische System der Europäischen Union" has formed the basis for teaching the EU in numerous lectures.

Supervision of Final Theses

In his function as Professor at the Institute for Political Science and European Questions, Wolfgang Wessels has supervised a total of almost 400 final theses at pre- and post-graduate level and supported 34 young researchers in their dissertation projects as primary supervisor.

The topics of the final thesis at Bachelor and Master level, on the one hand, depict the key research interests of the Jean Monnet Chair as transmitted in teaching. On the other hand, their broad scope follows the developments of the scientific and political landscape at time of writing and demonstrated the accommodation of the personal interests of the students.

The following list presents the dissertation projects under Prof. Wessels' supervision that were finalized by the end of 2015.

Research Personnel of the Jean Monnet Chair, 1993–2016

The scope of the research activities, teaching, project acquiring and project management is owed to the dedicated work of the research personnel of the chair in the time period from 1993 to 2016. Over 70 young professionals have been part of the chair as research associates during formative time of PhD candidates, during the Post-Doc stage, as lecturers or contributed to chair activities as PhD scholarship students. More than 20 visiting lecturers and visiting professors from universities and institutions in Germany, France and Turkey have provided a broad spectrum of topics and perspectives to students of political science in Cologne.

In the past decade the Coelner Monnet Vereinigung für Europa Studien (COMOS) e.V. served as a valuable platform to maintain contacts and discuss topics of EU integration among members and alumni of the chair.
